Sense and Nonsense. A boarder thinks he has made a marked improvement on a well-known Scripture text, which he reads as follows, "When thou prayest go into the pantry and shut the door."

Do the patrons of husbandry remember that Adam, the first man to receive a land grant, died poor?

Lightning rods are to be discontinued at Sing Sing Prison, as it is proved they con-vey more prisoners than lightning to the 10,000 cubic yards of obstruction had been removed at "Hell Gate, near New York," says "They will get it open pretty soon, so they can all get in!"

A Philadelphia Quaker complimented one of his sect who had joined an Episcopal Church on the new organ used there. "Why I thought thee objected to church music?" "Ah, so I do," was the reply; "but if thee must worship God by machinery, I want thee to have the best."

Lady Amberley, an English woman who recently visited this country, said "American school girls all look sick." But then Hawthorne said: "English women pat forty step like elephants." And Aaron Burr, on seeing Fanny Kemble said she was "A fine animal!" So who is shead in this controversy?

In December, Brooklyn will have a re markable wedding. Three brothers will lead to the altar three sisters.

Good news for the boys. A Justice in Iowa has decided that courting is a neces-sity, and that an amorous youth did right in ejecting his girl's father from the parfor one night, for trying to break up his

Mn. Beecher at Princeron.—There were two influences at work in the Alliance—the young, advanced liberal element, and the conservative. Mr. Beecher was the leader of one side and Dr. McCosh was the representative man on the other. On the way to Washington an entertainment assurprovided at Princeton. Dr. McCosh. the way to Washington an entertainment was provided at Princeton. Dr. McCosh was the Generalissimo, and marshalled the forces from the station to the church. The galleries were reserved for the students, and were crowded. The Alliance filled the floor. A programme was made out. But from that programme Mr. Beecher was carefully excluded. After the first speaker there was a loud call from the galleries for "Beecher!" "Beecher!" This clamor was silenced by the waving of the hands of the President. The clamor was renewed after the second speaker. The boys did not care about Christlieb, Arnot, Stoughton, or anybody else; they wanted Beecher. Thinking a trick was to be played upon them, the ing a trick was to be played upon them, the boys became very demonstrative, Dr. McCosh had to rise and explain.

He said a programme had been made out, and that must be adhered to, after which Mr. Beecher would address the meeting. The students had to be satisfied and remain mid. quiet. When the bill of fare was exhausted the President arose and announced that the Alliance would now leave and visit the college, but that Mr. Beecher would remain and address the students. And the foreign delegates filed out and left the body of the house vacant. It was a little piece of sharp practice on the part of the President that was not regarded as very creditable. Mr. Beecher made a very short address, and then joined the company in going the grand rounds.—N. Y. Cor. Boston Journal.

STHANGE AFFAIR. - The Lima, N. Y., Recorder gives an account of a singular shooting affair that occured in that village about 11 o'clock last Sunday night. J. A. Lindsley, Esq., and his wife were awakened from ley, Esq., and his wife were awakened from sleep by a pistol-shot in their room. Mr. Lindsley sprang from the bed and proceeded to grapple with the intruder. Before he succeeded in doing so a second shot was fired, striking the bed where Mrs. Lindsley had just left it, The first charge took effect in the head of the bedstead, a few inches above Mr. Lindsley's head. During the struggle that ensued the revolver was again discharged, the ball passing through the would-be murderer's hat. A dark lantern used had become extinguished at the first shot, and when a light was brought; it was discovered that the attack was made by an alopted daughter of Mr. Lindsley, named Lizzie Ford. The first words Mr. Lindsley, named because the structure of the season, of the best quality, which he will make up to order in the most stylish, desirable and tashionable manner, at customers leaving their orders with him need have no scrupies in regard to getting their cothes cut to fit nicely. His long experience warrants that. Alterations, one after another, are perplexing to a customer, and nover suit when done. Customers can avoid all such in-customers with him need have no scrupies in regard to getting their customers and a customer, and the public generally, that he is now opening a very fine stock of WOOLENS, and other piece which will correspond with the times. The first words Mr. Lindsley heard were, "If you stir, you are dead man." She was disguised in Mr. Lindsley's hat and vest, and had on a pair of false whiskers. She had placed a large bottle of chloroform open on the stand near the bed. and the fumes had nearly overcome Mr.
Lindsley when assistance arrived. The girl was armed with a revolver, a surgeon's catlin with an eight-inch blade, and a bottle of chloroform. She states that these were purchased for her by a young man in Lina.

The Destruction of Ten in Boston Harbor.

The 16th of December, now near at hand, will close the one hundredth year since the destruction of three cargoes of British tea in Boston Harbor. Shall the event pass by unnoticed by our citizens?

Whoever is familiar with the early history of the conflict with the mother country, canof the conflict with the mother country, can-not be ignorant of the fact that this transac-tion, put through as it was by a mere hand-ful of patriots, to use the common parlance of the day, mechanics, and laboring men, was the entering wedge or lever that top-pled over British rule in the colonies, the fall of which jarred the world, and whose vibrations are being felt in all civilized lands.

In the view taken by our great historian, Mr. Baneroft, of this transaction, its importance can hardly be fully estimated, in giving a momentum to the cause of civil liberty throughout the whole country. As the news went abroad, it electrified the American people, instantly, into a resolute determination to resist to the bitter end British rule on this continent. And when the news of this hold and daring affair reached England, her statesmen, with breathless anxiety, stared at each other in wild amazement, for they saw at once that the Yankee blood was up, and but too plainly that British rule and authority was doomed in America. As the news went abroad, it electrified med in America.

How then can Bostonians now afford to let the one-hundredth anniversary of that day rass unnoticed! In calling it up a thouday pass unnoticed! In calling it up a thousand thrilling memories cluster around its history. The great meeting of that memororable afternoon, of more than seven thousand patriots, gathored together in the Old South, and its vieinity, composed of ardent and true men from the neighboring towns, with Samuel Adams, Paul Revere, John Hancock, and the younger Quincy and other distinguished men, patriots all, to give impetus and inspiration to the multitude, on that memorable day, and as the shades of night gathered around them. Then to see that little band of heroes, full of patriotic indignation, not more than forty or fifty, pass out from the throng and wend their pass out from the throng and wend their way in the disguise of Indians towards Griffin's wharf, and then and there coolly ance, it being the key note of liberty and human rights to the whole world. Nearly a century has passed by since the drama of the American Revolution closed, and we now find our country, yet young, in the front ranks of the nations of the world; and the actors in its owning secures, here have front ranks of the nations of the world; and the actors in its opening scenes have long since passed on to their great reward. Does not then the present generation of Bostonians owe it to themselves, as well as their patriotic ancestry, publicly to remembrance at least once in a century and at its close, the great deeds and noble daring of such men? Let us then assemble in Old Fancuil Hall, and call on our "silver-tonguid" Bostonian to recount the valor and patriotic daring of "The Boston Tea-Party."
